IN WORSHIP TODAY

So often stewardship campaigns have a linear progression. We're trying to get from point A to point B. And certainly, we do have those kinds of goals. We want to pay off our mortgage. We want to pay for our roof replacement and tuckpointing. We want to finish things. But this is hardly going to be a linear process. It will look more like a cycle, an evaluating, a confessing, a rejoicing, and a recommitting. Today, we make commitments to the Lord just like the Israelites did. This is, however, not something we will do only today. It is one that we renew in repentance each day of our lives and in every part of our lives.

I LAY AT JESUS'S FEET MY PERSONAL COMMITMENT TO GROW AND GIVE.

NEW SERIES STARTING NEXT SUNDAY: SCARS

This Lenten season, we're taking a look at the scars we all have from our sin and from the sin of others. Ultimately, it's not about our scars, but rather the scars of Christ which he took for us on the cross.

*But he was pierced for our transgressions,
he was crushed for our iniquities;
the punishment that brought us peace was on him,
and by his wounds we are healed.*

Isaiah 53:5

THE LUTHERAN CEILI ORCHESTRA

The Lutheran Ceili Orchestra (TLCO) was founded by Pastor Mark Jeske and music director Jeff Krumbein in Milwaukee, Wisconsin in the 1990s. Originally assembled from members of St Marcus Lutheran Church to accompany a Christian worship service around St Patty's Day, the group has grown to include members of Lutheran churches from all over Wisconsin and tours across the country. Their unique mission is to lead meaningful, edifying liturgical worship while bringing forward the voice of the ancient Celtic Christian.

Next Sunday, February 18, TLCO will be leading us in worship. You will be invited to give a gift to support their music and worship ministry in a free-willing offering at the conclusion of the service.

Please bring extra snacks next Sunday to make our fellowship time "super" as we connect with each other and all those who worship with us next Sunday.

MINISTRY UPDATES

Midweek Lent

This Wednesday, we will begin our Lenten journey. This means special worship opportunities every week. This Wednesday is "Ash Wednesday." We will have one service at 6:00 pm. After that, we will have regular midweek services each Wednesday. These services will be at 4:30 pm and 6:00 pm.
